

Abstract

The present invention makes available methods and reagents for facilitating memory, e.g., to increase memory function such as long-term memory and recall ability. Memory is increased by increasing attention and long term consolidation.